

The town of Cervantes is named after Cervantes Island, which in turn took its name from the American whaling ship 'Cervantes' (wrecked nearby on the 29th June, 1844). Its white sandy beaches and reef sheltered bay offer an anchorage for both professional and amateur fishermen.